OSU-Mansfield Theatre department presents The Tragedy of Julius Caesar.

Some of the most quoted lines in all of Shakespeare's works highlight this tragedy about politics and deceit. Revisit a world pulled apart by a charismatic leader, a viper's den of political operatives, the search for nobility in the midst of corruption and backroom deals, and crowds easily swayed by a silver-tongued master of opportunism and manipulation.

The production is directed by Joseph Fahey, Associate Professor of Theatre at Ohio State Mansfield. Ticket prices: $7 general admission;, $5 senior citizens, non-Ohio State and non-NC State students and Ohio State Mansfield and NC State faculty staff and accompanying family members; $2 Ohio State Mansfield and NC State students (with current validated ID). Students not presenting valid ID are charged the $5 student price). Produced in cooperation with the Children's Theatre Foundation.

Showdates:

Friday November 4 at 7:00pm

Saturday November 5 at 8:00pm
Sunday November 6 at 2:00pm
