

Encore Performance of Reflecting Pond at The Ohio State University Mansfield

2017-06-11 00:47:24 by MelissaH0243

Reflecting Pond, written and directed by Bryan Gladden, is a social satire with an emphasis on exploring society's views on relationships and social norms and stereotypes.

The fish, like the audience, come to watch, comment, and make fun of the humans on the pier (i.e. the stage) rather than deal with own problems or recognize that they share the same issues. This is a collaborative effort between Ohio State Mansfield Theatre Program, Mid-Ohio

Educational Talented and Gifted program, and The Alchemists. This Play was selected for performance at the Columbus Arts Festival by the Columbus Arts Council and the Columbus Arts Festival Selection Committee.

This encore performance of Reflecting Pond is Sunday, June 11th at 3:00pm in the Founder's Auditorium at The Ohio State University Mansfield Campus. Doors will open at 2:30pm.

Some adult language and adult situations.

Tickets are $5.00 per person.

Tickets are available at City News, 100 N Main Street. Mansfield, Ohio 44902

Tickets can also be purchased at the door the day of the performance.
